THE AWAKENING YEAR.

T. B. REED.

The bluebirds and the violets
Are with us once again,
And promises of summer spot
The hillside and the plain.

The clouds along the mountain tops
Are riding on the breeze,
Their trailing aure trains of mist
Are tangled in the trees.

The snow-drifts, which have lain so long,
Haunting the hidden nooks,
Like guilty ghosts have slipped away,
Unseen, into the brooks.

The streams are fed with generous rain,
They drink the wondrous spring,
And sputter down from crag to crag,
Upon their foamy wings.

Through all the long wet nights the bawl,
By mountain homes remote,
Till woodmen in their sleep behold
Their ample raft afloat.

The lazy whet that hung so dry
Above the little stream,
Whirls wildly in the misty dale,
And through the miller's dream.

Loud torrent unto torrent calls,
Till at the mountain's feet,
Flashing afar their spectral light,
The noisy waters meet.

They meet, and through the lowlands sweep
Towards briny bay and lake,
Proclaiming to the distant towns,
"The country is awake!"

The Howling of a Dog.

Reveries.

To hear a dog howl in the night has been regarded of old with the same dislike as in modern times, and arises from the belief that the dog can see things which are not visible to others.

In the "Odyssey," when the dogs knew Athene, they "fled to the stables far side," and the dog of the North were conscious "when Hell unlight." Rabbi, Bechai, in his "Exposition of the Five Books of Moses," says: "Our Rabbins of blessed memory have said when the dogs howl then cometh the angel of death into the city; but when the dogs are at play then cometh Elias into the city;" and in the exposition of another Rabbi: "Our Rabbins of blessed memory have said, when the angel of death enters a city the dogs howl. And I have seen it written by one of the disciples of Rabbi Jehuda the Just, that upon a time a dog did howl, and clapt his tail between his legs, and went aside for fear of the angel of death, and somebody coming and kicking the dog to the place from which he had fled, the dog presently died. German peasants believe that if a dog barks looking upward a recovery may be expected, but if he looks toward the earth death is certain. In Cornwall the howling of a dog is always a sad sign, but if repeated three nights, the house against which it howled will soon be in mourning." In Ireland, where the death-tick is still feared, it is reported as "a curious circumstance" that the real death-tick must only tick three times on each occasion. When we remember that Mr. Darwin says that death ticks (Anobium tessellatum) are known to answer to each other's ticking, or, as he has personally observed, a tapping noise artificially made, it is evident that if a Lancashire maid is disturbed by the three dread ticks, she should wait for answering ticks, or stimulate them by an artificial tick; before allowing her superstitious fears to get the better of her reason.

The Winter Palace.

The Winter Palace in St. Petersburg figures extensively in the Nihilist plots. The palace is an imposing pile upon the left bank of the Neva. Rastulvi was the designer of the structure. The Winter Palace occupies the site, which, in the time of Peter the Great, was the property of his high admiral, Count Alrazin, who by his will left it to Peter II. After her coronation at Moscow the Empress Anna lived there for a time, but in about the middle of the last century it was pulled down and the erection of a palace begun. It was completed in the reign Catherine. In 1837 it was burned to the ground; but in less than two years the palace, as it now stands, was finished. It is about eighty feet in height and more than 450 feet in length.

Keeping Hams.—We have found it a good method in keeping hams and shoulders, to let them hang in the smoke-house, or a tight, dark room, and give a few hours' smoking every week or ten days. This will keep out flies and bugs, and keep the meat free from damp and mold.

"I don't want that stuff!" Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Her Bitter.
